

5I-6 Reducing the Number of Turning Movements

The volume of turning movements to and from major roadways can be reduced by the following methods in commercial and industrial areas:

- Provide connections between adjacent parcels.
- Require adequate internal circulation for development.
- Provide alternative access from minor roads.
- Provide a supporting circulation system such as frontage and backage roads.